

ROYAL Baking Powder Economy

The manufacturers of Royal Baking Powder have always declined to produce a cheap baking powder at the sacrifice of quality.

Royal Baking Powder is made from pure grape cream of tartar, and is the embodiment of all the excellence possible to be attained in the highest class baking powder.

Royal Baking Powder costs only a fair price, and is more economical at its price than any other leavening agent, because of the superlative quality and absolute wholesomeness of the food it makes.

Mixtures made in imitation of baking powders, but containing alum, are frequently distributed from door to door, or given away in grocery stores. Such mixtures are dangerous to use in food. In England, France, Germany and some sections of the United States their sale is prohibited by law. Alum is a dangerous mineral acid, and all physicians condemn baking powders containing it.

The label of alum baking powders must show the ingredients.

Need the Money

We are sending out subscription accounts this week. We are doing this, not only because we need the money, but because the postal regulations will not permit us to send the paper more than a year without receiving pay for same. We ask our readers to meet these statements promptly as we will appreciate the money more at the present than any other time.

Jealousy Was Crimes's Cause

McKinney and Wife Quarrelled Over Her Unfaithfulness Just Before Killing.

The Junior Order of American Mechanics here have made investigation into the death of R. W. McKinney at Athens, Ga., and have authorized the burying of the body at that place. The cause of the murder and suicide, according to the Athens Banner, was jealousy. The 19-year-old girl who witnessed the tragedy, stated that her parents had quarrelled over a letter which the husband had intercepted and which was addressed to another man. He remonstrated with her about her relations with men and for being away from home, parts of Saturday and Sunday nights, and telling her that he was going to do what he had promised. He went into an adjoining room and secured a gun, returning shot his wife to death as she stood in front of the looking glass, and then he turned the gun on himself and ended his own life.

McKinney was a member in good standing of the Unaka Council and the Newport officials had received his dues no later than Monday, and as a result the little girl will receive $500 from the order, and will be taken care of in the order's home, instructions to the effect already having been sent the Athens authorities.

HUMOROUS QUIPS

Typographical Error.

I've come to lick the editor!
By gosh, I want his blood!
I want to club
His head and rub
His whiskers in the mud.

I want to knock his false teeth down
His throat, and mash his nose,
And break his neck,
And mash his spectacles,
And tear his clothes!

I've come to lick the editor.
And I want his printer's life!
I'm mad clean through,
And did I, too,
So likewise is my wife.

We had a big reunion
To our house yesterday,
And all the Browns
From forty towns
Was there, from miles away.

A "gatherin' of the clans" it was,
And so we writ it down
And sent it to
The News-Review.
The weekly of our town.

I've come to lick the editor!
Newspaper men is hams!
He fixed that head-
Line so it read:
"The Gathering of the Clams!"
—Toledo Blade.

The Easiest Way.

A steam heating plant had been installed in the house of the new president of a small conservative college. The president, startled by a break in the steam pipes, went in search of the college janitor. Being unfamiliar with his new surroundings, he entered the library.

"Dr. So-and-so," he inquired, his breath coming in gasps, "how can I find the janitor?"

"Well," the librarian replied in a slow drawl, "I find the surest way is to send him a postal card."—Success Magazine.

Brother Dickey's Philosophy.

Et dar wuz a elevator gwine ter heaven ever' minute folks would alus be waitin' fer de next trip.

W'en Gabrul blows his trumpet some folks will rise up an' tell him dat dey ain't had enough sleep.

De reason we don't see any fuder ahead is kase we is allus lookin' back down de road we has done traveled.

Tribulation settlement is so close, ter Halleluia Town dat it's a wonder de sound er de banjos an' fiddles don't start de solemn folks ter dancin'.

Atlanta Constitution.

Ambitious.

"Pop!"

"Yes, my daughter."

"This paper says that the average child of six years uses fewer than 400 words in her daily conversation."

"Yes, my child."

"Well, pop, how soon will I be allowed to use as many as mamma?"—Yonkers Statesman.

Not to Be Fooled With.

Gibbs—Now that the mother-in-law joke is dead from overwork and old age why don't some of these funny chaps start a father-in-law joke on its rounds, I wonder?

Nibbs—They have a suspicion, I think, that father-in-law carries a gun.—Browning's Magazine.

An Economist.

"What in the world do you want with so many garden seeds?" inquired the patient member of congress. "You surely don't plant all of them."

"No," replied the constituent. "We put a little milk and sugar on them and use them for breakfast food."—Washington Star.

R. F. Whitmer Heads T. & N. C.

Succeeds J. B. Hart as President of the Local Railroad.

R. F. Whitmer of Philadelphia, president of the five million dollar Champion Lumber Company has been elected president of the Tennessee and North Carolina Railroad by the directors and Mr. Campbell, the vice president of the Lumber Company has been named to the same office with the railroad. Mr. J. B. Hart, who has been the president of the Tennessee and North Carolina Railroad since its organization, and who has been very successful in its operation, remains affiliated with the company in the capacity of director. The change was made in order that the business of both the Champion Lumber Company and the Tennessee and North Carolina Railroad could be operated from the main office at Philadelphia. There will be no change in the local management, Superintendent A. J. McMahan's work meeting the commendation of not only the retiring officials but of the new officials as well.

"The Mattress of the Present and Future"

Ostermoor

Every other mattress in the world is STUFFED—hair, cotton or feathers, jammed in at the open end of a tick. That's why lumps and holes soon cause sleepless nights. Each OSTERMOOR is built—not stuffed. Hand laid sheets of downy softness, each full sized, are carefully built within the tick. It is vermin proof. An occasional sun bath is all it requires. The tick can be taken off and washed when soiled.
